

Next-Generation Intelligence for Finished Vehicle Logistics

With margins growing tighter and tighter, the need for greater efficiency across the vehicle manufacturing supply chain is ever increasing. And with success that depends on the ability to process thousands of vehicles weekly, FVL providers have a unique challenge to determine where within their operations there is room to increase efficiencies and cut costs.

Real-time asset intelligence provided by Cognosos enables FVL providers to transform vehicle processing operations with immediate access to location data and powerful analytics that deliver impactful operational insights.

Cognosos combines GPS with patented networking technology to provide flexible, long-range coverage that is easily deployed. This powerful combination enables step-by-step directions to every vehicle located within a specified area, eliminating the costly and error-prone burden of manually scanning barcodes, and canvassing yards searching for vehicles.

Our cloud-based platform displays real time insights, with vehicle location accurate down to a parking spot, and is coupled with a powerful dashboard that transforms data into intelligence.

From bottleneck identification to process optimization, technology from Cognosos provides powerful asset intelligence that illuminates insights throughout the stages of finished vehicle processing and enables the delivery of world-class service.
